

Wildflower Montessori

Style Guide

Our Principles

Wildflower is a new learning environment, blurring the boundaries between home-schooling and institutional schooling, between scientists and teachers, between schools and the neighborhoods around them. At the core of Wildflower are these 9 principles that define the approach.

Montessori

Providing a peaceful, mixed-age, child-directed environment

Teacher-Led

Committed to remaining small, non-hierarchical and responsive to the needs of children

Shopfront

Committed to remaining small, integrated in the community, and responsive to the needs of children

Innovation

A research setting dedicated to advancing the Montessori Method in the context of the modern world

Home

Blurring the boundaries of home-schooling and institutional schooling

Equity

Working to create diverse, inclusive learning environments that work for justice as the foundation of peace

Beauty

Giving the children opportunities to observe and interact with adults doing day-to-day creative work

Nature

Emphasizing the nonseparation between nature and human nature through a unique living-classroom design and extensive time in nature

Network

Advancing an ecosystem of independent Wildflower schools that mutually support one another
